

Althea Winslow

SALES DESIGNER
PROJECT MANAGER

Althea grew up in Minnesota, digging in the garden, where her mom taught her an appreciation for plants and what they can do to transform any space. When it came time to pursue higher education, she loved graphic design, but was looking to create something with a more tangible final product. Althea applied what she knew about color, space, and psychology from graphic design to the outdoors and received her undergraduate degree in graphic design and a masters degree in Landscape Architecture.

Althea is most passionate about modern and mid-century modern styles, but she loves working with all styles every day at Alpine Gardens. From Colorado native, to cottage, to formal, it keeps each day interesting!

When she's not busy designing custom landscapes, Althea loves to explore the great Colorado outdoors with her husband. They love the cooler temperatures of the mountains and like to bring their dogs along when discovering new trailheads, lakes, and waterfalls.
