

Evan Moore

LANDSCAPE DESIGNER
PROJECT MANAGER

From a young age, Evan loved being outside, working with his dad in the yard or his grandmother in the garden. These experiences helped guide him toward his career in the landscape industry. As the years went on, his desire to gain more experience and expand his design skills inspired him to return to school to pursue a Master of Landscape Architecture degree. He moved his family from Virginia to Colorado to attend school, and after graduation, he joined the Alpine Gardens team in January 2016.

Education:

Undergraduate degree from
Brigham Young University-Idaho

Masters Degree in Landscape Architecture
from Colorado State University

*E*van's experience consists of managing, installing and designing projects of various style and scale. Evan approaches each project with an eye toward beauty, as well as function, as he works with clients to meet their needs with inspired spaces. The most satisfying aspect of his job is transforming dull, empty, messy or even dysfunctional spaces into something useful and attractive.

Evan loves working at Alpine Gardens and enjoys collaborating with the talented team of people who strive to provide quality landscapes for their customers. When he's not designing, Evan and his wife, Lauren, enjoy watching movies, playing board games and running around outside with their three children.
